01 / Inventory & applicability

☐ List AI use cases, owners, suppliers and affected people.

☐ Identify your role: provider, deployer, importer or distributor. Do not assume the vendor carries every obligation.

☐ Check prohibited uses, transparency duties and the relevant high-risk category. Record the reasoning, not just a label.

02 / Evidence & controls

☐ Document the data flow, purpose, retention and access rights; check GDPR separately.

☐ Keep AI literacy evidence tied to the staff’s actual tasks and permissions.

☐ Ask suppliers for intended use, limitations, changes and available compliance documentation.

03 / Dates & your next decision

☐ AI literacy and the original prohibited-practice rules have applied since 2 February 2025; most general provisions apply from 2 August 2026.

☐ The Commission’s current Article 113 text lists Annex III high-risk rules from 2 December 2027 and Annex I product rules from 2 August 2028. Confirm your specific obligation and transition before relying on a date.

☐ Assign each missing evidence item an owner, a due date and a launch decision: proceed, pause or investigate.
